Thinking Money: A Financial Exhibition

Thinking Money is a traveling exhibition designed to educate about financial literacy topics in a way that is understandable and fun.

Along with this exhibition, the Spokane County Library District presents a selection of financial programs, including classes about college savings, planning, and financial aid, workshops about senior planning for a secure financial future, courses on how to avoid identity theft and online fraud and scams, plus strategies for wise buying and more.

Visit www.sclid.org/thinking-money/ for more details.

WORDS

This fall, the Library District brings you programs and a weekend conference centered on “words.” Washington State Poet Laureate Tod Marshall introduces works by several poets in a discussion series that explores poetry. Our crafting workshops include cross stitch, letterpress, and ink stamps. All writers—from aspiring to experienced—are invited to a series of prose writing workshops on fiction, nonfiction, and memoir. The NaNoWriMo Readiness Conference, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, takes place during the last weekend of October and is recommended for all writers, especially those tackling the novel writing challenge in November.

Visit www.sclid.org/words-2016/ for more details.
